

Matthew Camilleri is the Managing Director at The Physiotherapy Specialists, a chain of private physiotherapy clinics in Malta and Managing Physiotherapist at The Pain Clinic, a private pain management center, also in Malta. He is a graduate of the University of Malta and has recently completed a Master's degree in clinical pain management with the University of Edinburgh.

Matthew holds a special interest in and is passionate about musculoskeletal physiotherapy and persistent pain management.

Matthew previously held the role of vice-president within the Malta Association of Physiotherapists and was actively involved in a task-force aimed at restructuring national care plans for pain patients. Matthew was also invited to speak at the Societal Impact of Pain Symposium in 2017 and presented on the relevance of Physiotherapy in pain management.

Apart from being a physiotherapist, Matthew is actively involved in rugby. He captains Sliema Stompers RFC and has represented Malta internationally in rugby. Matthew is also a qualified IRB strength and conditioning coach.

Libby Soderholm is a sports Physiotherapist and Managing Director of 2 multidisciplinary Clinics in Western Australia. A graduate of the Australian Institute of Company Directors, she also has a diploma in business management and is passionate about good clinical governance. She is on the APA Business groups National Committee and chairs the West Australian Physiotherapy Business Committee. She is the APA Australian representative for the International Private Physical Therapy Association (IPPTA), a subgroup of WCPT, and works with the Physiotherapy Board of Australia on their registrations and notifications Committee.

Angele Azzopardi has a bachelor degree in physiotherapy through the University of Malta acquired in 2018. She is currently working in the public sector as a rotating member of staff in an acute setting with previous experience in the community and at an outpatient setting. As a partial fulfilment of her degree a dissertation was submitted about the physiotherapy reimbursement methods employed by the Maltese health insurances in the private sector. This dissertation was also presented at the WCPT 2019 held in Geneva. In the near future, she aspires to continue furthering her studies with a special interest in direct access to physiotherapy, professional issues and health promotion.

Dylan Bonello is an Information, Communication and Technology Officer at the Inspections Coordination Office based within the Office of the Prime Minister in Valletta, Malta. Mr Bonello read for an M.Sc. in Management with the University of Chester. He has also obtained a Higher Diploma in Information Technology from the Institute of the City and Guilds, London. He has worked within the private sector for 13 years and has recently joined the Malta Public Service. Mr Bonello was engaged within the Inspections Coordination Office since the very beginning. He was salient in the Business Process re-engineering and the development of an information system which unified the inspections processes, intended to increase efficiency, effectiveness and lessen the burden of inspections on the business operators.

Milos Stanisavljevic is a physiotherapist with great interest in sport medicine and is also Managing Director of 6 physiotherapy centers in Europe and Northern Africa. He finished University for medical science - Nursing College – Physiotherapy department back in 1996. In 2000, he arrived on the Maltese islands to start a sports medical center which would improve local sports medicine. With the great help of St James group, his new clinic opened in 2003. That same year he joined MOC medical team and worked alongside some of the best Maltese doctors, physios and sports workers. His dedication to bring the best possible physiotherapy service resulted in his participation as a physiotherapist during 7 Small nation games, 3 Olympic Games, 2 Mediterranean games and 2 Commonwealth games.